NOTES ON 2010/2011 SCHOOL OF LAW CALENDAR AND REGISTRATION FOR CLASSES

NOTICE: UPPER-DIVISION WRITING AND SKILLS REQUIREMENT

The faculty has enacted an upper-division writing requirement and an upper division skills requirement as mandated for all law schools by the ABA. Courses that provide an opportunity to fulfill the writing requirement and the skills requirement are identified in the schedule. For more information about this requirement, please see sections 14.12 and 14.13 of the Academic Policy Statement at <http://law.pepperdine.edu/academics/policy/>.

NOTICE: PRIORITY ENROLLMENT FOR STRAUS DISPUTE RESOLUTION ELECTIVES

JD students participating in either the dispute resolution certificate or master's program will receive priority enrollment in all dispute resolution elective courses, with the exception of the Alternative Dispute Resolution course. JD students not participating in either program may place themselves on a waitlist and seat availability will be determined at the beginning of the semester. Seats not filled by program participants will be released to JD students on the waitlist.

NOTICE: RESCHEDULING EXAMS

Every effort has been made to avoid conflicts between required courses and in the final exam schedules. Students may not petition to reschedule a final exam unless two final exams are to be taken on the same day. Therefore, it is important for you to pay attention to the final exam schedule when you are selecting your courses. Petitions to change one of two exams scheduled for the same day must be filed by the seventh week of classes. For additional details concerning the law school final exam policies go to

<http://law.pepperdine.edu/academics/policy/>.

NOTICE: NEW CERTIFICATE IN INTERNATIONAL AND COMPARATIVE LAW

The Certificate in International and Comparative Law offers students the opportunity for exposure to different facets of international law and international living in order to better position them for an international career.

The certificate seeks to encourage students to expand their career goals by facilitating overseas experiences in one of the Semester or Summer overseas programs in London, Copenhagen, Augsburg, Rwanda and Uganda. Students will be mentored by the international faculty through international courses, internships, moots and memberships as well as the initial application interview. Although not required, students are encouraged to develop language skills and direction is given to help achieve this. NEW COURSES BEING OFFERED THIS SPRING 2011

For course descriptions, please refer to the course catalog on the School of Law website at <http://law.pepperdine.edu/academics/content/catalog2010.pdf>

ADVANCED LITIGATION WRITING: This course is designed to provide students with exposure to and experience with drafting a wide variety of documents required in litigation. For example, students will draft and review demand letters to opposing counsel, pleadings, discovery documents, declarations, separate statements in support of summary judgment motions, argument sections for procedural motions, and in limine motions. Students will be assigned to represent either the plaintiff or the defendant in a civil case and will alternate each week drafting documents to be served on the opposing side. The substantive law needed for completing the document drafting will be given to students in a closed library format. This class is intended to supplement the first-year Legal Research and Writing course by exposing students to a broader array of drafting assignments. It is particularly intended for those with an interest in litigation. Classroom instruction will focus on the purpose of the various types of documents students will be drafting and how they fit into the litigation process. The course meets every week for a two-hour session, during which students will receive classroom instruction, review and critique other students' work, and perform in-class exercises. Enrollment will be limited to twelve students and interested students should submit a one-page memorandum to the professor explaining why they want to take the course. This memorandum should be supplied to the professor before the student enrolls in the course. This course provides an opportunity for fulfilling the upper-division writing requirement.

BIBLE AND THE LAW SEMINAR: This seminar will give students who are seriously interested in the relationship between the Bible and the law the chance to be exposed to some well-known scholars in the fields of law and theology as they wrestle with the course topic. The course will be built around a book project by those scholars. The book will examine both how Christians have historically looked at what various sections of the scriptures teach about positive law and what those scriptures might teach us today. The focus will be on the positive law—the law that is adopted and enforced by governments, rather than the moral law. Each chapter of the book will focus on a different section of scripture and is being co-authored by a law professor and a theologian. Author/speakers include David Van Druenen (Westminster Seminary, CA), Randy Beck (University of Georgia), David Skeel (University of Pennsylvania), Tremper Longman (Westmont College), William Brewbaker (University of Alabama), Phillip Long (Regent College, Vancouver), John Witte (Emory), Barbara Armacost (University of Virginia), Peter Enns (Westminster Seminary, PA, retired), Dallas Willard (USC), Joel Nichols (St. Thomas, MN), and John Nagle (Notre Dame).

COMMUNITY OUTREACH: YOUTH MENTORING IN LAW: This two-unit course includes both an on-campus classroom component and an off-campus community outreach component. The on-campus sessions will begin with an introduction to the basics of community outreach work in underprivileged communities and strategies for teaching and mentoring youth. Subsequent sessions will focus on particular teaching exercises designed to introduce high school students to the legal system, the basics of criminal, civil and constitutional law and the skills of oral advocacy and alternative dispute resolution. The off-campus outreach component entails conducting teaching exercises and mentoring sessions with the selected students from the Law and Social Justice Academy at Jordan High School in Watts, California, as well as attending social activities with the mentees. Law students will be responsible for their own transportation to and from the Jordan campus, which is approximately 35 miles from the Malibu campus. These off-campus sessions will occur every other week, usually on Thursday afternoons and will be approximately two hours in duration, not including travel time. The Jordan students will be brought to the Malibu campus for several sessions during the semester and there will be other off-campus social activities at other locations as well.

HUMAN RIGHTS AND THE RULE OF LAW IN THE DEVELOPING WORLD: Human Rights and the Rule of Law in the Developing World seminar will make an in-depth exploration into the enforcement of human rights with a particularly emphasis on working with local government agencies and communities to provide effective access to justice. This 1-unit seminar will culminate with a paper on this topic.

LAW AND SEXUAL ETHICS: This course will explore the ethics and law pertaining to the regulation of sexuality. The course will deal first with historical and philosophical approaches to sexuality. It will then explore a series of major legal and political issues, including sexual expression, reproduction, surrogacy, regulation of consensual and non-consensual sexual relations, and various issues surrounding sexual orientation. The nature of the class requires a cross-cutting analysis of numerous legal disciplines, including constitutional law, criminal law, international and comparative law, contract law, tort law, and family law.
