

Dispute Resolution Law Journal Symposium on the ALI Restatement on International Commercial and Investor-State Arbitration

February 27–28, 2020 | Pepperdine Caruso School of Law

Panelists', and Presenters', and Moderators' Biographies

Presenter

Judge Margaret McKeown

Judge Margaret McKeown was appointed to the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit in 1998. Judge McKeown is the past president of the Federal Judges Association and is currently chair of the ABA Rule of Law Initiative Board. She serves on the council of the American Law Institute, the executive council for the American Society of International Law, the managerial board of the International Association of Women Judges, and the editorial board of Litigation Journal. She is vice chair of the Georgetown Law of board of visitors and has received an honorary doctorate from Georgetown. Judge McKeown has been an advisor on several international projects of the American Law Institute and is also an advisor on the Restatement of the Law for Copyright. She has lectured and taught extensively on intellectual property, international law, human rights law, litigation, ethics, judicial administration, and constitutional law in Latin America, Asia, the Middle East, and Europe. Judge McKeown earned a BA from the University of Wyoming and a JD from Georgetown University.

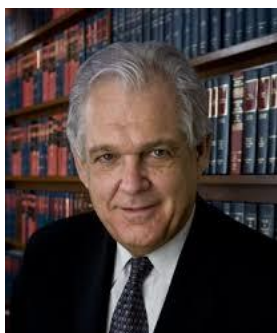

Panelists

Roger P. Alford

Roger P. Alford served as the deputy assistant attorney general for international affairs with the Antitrust Division of the US Department of Justice from 2017 to 2019. He joined the Notre Dame Law faculty in January 2012. Alford teaches and writes in a wide range of subject-matter areas, including international trade, international arbitration, international antitrust, and comparative law. He is a concurrent professor at the Keough School of Global Affairs, a Faculty Fellow at the Kellogg Institute for International Studies, and a Faculty Fellow at the Nanovic Institute for European Studies. He was the academic director of the London Global Gateway from 2016 to 2017 and associate dean for Graduate and International Programs from 2013 to 2017. He practiced law with Hogan & Hartson (now Hogan Lovells) in Washington, DC, and was also a senior legal advisor to the Claims Resolution Tribunal for Dormant Activities in Zurich, Switzerland. Alford earned his BA from Baylor University, his JD from New York University, and his LLM from Edinburgh University.

George Bermann

George Bermann is the Walter Gelhorn Professor of Law, the Jean Monnet Professor of European Union Law, the director of the Center for International Commercial and Investment Arbitration Law, and the co-director of the European Legal Studies Center at Columbia Law School, as well as a permanent faculty member of the Institut d'Études Politiques (Sciences Po) in Paris, France, and the Collège d'Europe in Bruges, Belgium. Previously, he held the Tocqueville-Fulbright Distinguished Professorship at the University of Paris (Panthéon-Sorbonne). Bermann is the past president of the American Society of Comparative Law, the past editor in chief of the American Journal of Comparative Law, and the current president of the International Academy of Comparative Law. He is also the chief reporter of the ALI's Restatement of the Law of International Commercial Arbitration and co-editor in chief of the American Review of International Arbitration. Bermann holds a BA from Yale College, a JD from Yale Law School, and an LLM from Columbia Law School.

Julie Bédard

Julie Bédard is a partner in the New York offices at Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom LLP. She represents clients in federal and state courts in the United States and has served as counsel in international arbitration proceedings held under the auspices of the International Chamber of Commerce, the American Arbitration Association, the International Centre for Dispute Resolution, the London Court of International Arbitration, and the International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes. She also is a member of the Court of Arbitration of the Singapore International Arbitration Centre. Bédard serves as senior co-chair of the Arbitration Committee of the International Bar Association and is a member of its task force on “Addressing Issues of Corruption in International Arbitration.” She also serves as program chair for the Institute for Transnational Arbitration and as an affiliate member of the New York City Bar Association’s International Commercial Disputes Committee. Bédard holds a BCL and LLB from the McGill University Faculty of Law, and an LLM and JSD from Columbia University School of Law.

Andrea K. Bjorklund

Andrea K. Bjorklund is a professor and the L. Yves Fortier Chair in International Arbitration and International Commercial Law at McGill University Faculty of Law. In July 2019 she took up the role of associate dean (graduate studies) at McGill Law for a three-year mandate. In addition to serving as an adviser to the ALI’s project on Restatement on U.S. law of International Commercial Arbitration, she is a member of the advisory board of the investment treaty forum of the British Institute for International and Comparative Law. She sits on the panel of arbitrators of the AAA's International Centre for Dispute Resolution and on the roster of NAFTA Chapter 19 arbitrators. Prior to joining McGill, Bjorklund taught at the University of California, Davis, School of Law. Before entering the academy she was an attorney-adviser on the NAFTA arbitration team in the Office of the Legal Adviser of the US Department of State, in addition to periods at the US International Trade Commission and in private practice at Miller & Chevalier in Washington, DC. She clerked for Judge Samuel J. Ervin, III, of the US Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit. Bjorklund has a BA from the University of Nebraska, and MA from New York University and a JD from Yale Law School.

Cedric Chao

Cedric Chao is the founder of Chao ADR located in the San Francisco Bay area. Prior to starting his own ADR firm, Chao was a partner and US head of the international arbitration practice at DLA Piper, where he focused on cross-border commercial litigation and white-collar criminal defense. He has first-chaired many high stakes US trials and international arbitration disputes. Chao is a former chair of the California State Bar Litigation Section, and of the United States

Magistrate Judge Screening Committee of the Northern District of California. He is a member of the ICC Arbitration Commission, and a director of the American Arbitration Association. Chao earned a BA at Stanford University and a JD at Harvard Law School.

Christopher Drahozal

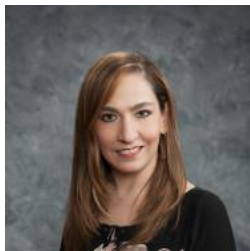

Christopher Drahozal is the John M. Rounds Professor of Law at the University of Kansas School of Law. Drahozal serves as an associate reporter for the ALI's Restatement of the U.S. Law of International Commercial and Investor-State Arbitration, and previously served as a special advisor to the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, assisting with its study of arbitration clauses in consumer financial services contracts. He is the author of multiple books and numerous articles on commercial arbitration, has given presentations on the subject in Europe, Asia, South America, Canada and the United States, and has testified before Congress and state legislatures on arbitration matters. Earlier in his career, Drahozal practiced law with Sidley & Austin in Washington, DC, and served as a law clerk for Chief Judge Charles Clark of the US Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, Associate Justice Byron White of the US Supreme Court, and Judge George H. Aldrich of the Iran-United States Claims Tribunal in The Hague, The Netherlands. He earned a BA from Washington University and a JD from the University of Iowa College of Law.

William S. Dodge

William Dodge is Martin Luther King, Jr. Professor of Law at the University of California, Davis School of Law. He has won the Rutter Distinguished Teaching Award both at the University of California, Davis

School of Law and at the University of California, Hastings College of the Law, where he was previously Roger J. Traynor Professor of Law. He is currently a member of the State Department's Advisory Committee on International Law and an adviser to the ALI's Restatement (Third) of the Conflict of Laws. Dodge served as counselor on international law to the legal adviser at the US Department of State from 2011 to 2012 and as co-reporter for the ALI's Restatement (Fourth) of Foreign Relations Law from 2012 to 2018. Dodge is coauthor of the casebook Transnational Business Problems and co-editor of International Law in the U.S. Supreme Court: Continuity and Change, which won the American Society of International Law's 2012 certificate of merit. Professor Dodge teaches International Business Transactions, International Litigation and Arbitration, and Contracts. Dodge clerked for Judge William A. Norris of the US Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit and for Justice Harry A. Blackmun of the US Supreme Court. He received his BA from Yale University and a JD from Yale Law School.

Cecilia Flores Rueda

Cecilia Flores Rueda practices at her firm, FloresRueda Abogados, a dispute resolution boutique. Flores Rueda was recognized as one of the best arbitration lawyers in the international arbitration category in 2013, 2014, and 2015 by Chambers Latin America. She works as both an arbitrator and counsel in cases involving inter alia, state entities and administrative law; infrastructure projects and construction; energy, gas, and oil; mining; and commercial transactions in general. Flores Rueda's previous positions include working for major law firms, and acting as secretary general for the Mediation and Arbitration Centre of the Mexico City National Chamber of Commerce (CANACO), where she was in charge of the administration of mediation and arbitration proceedings, both domestic and international, under the rules of CANACO, the Commercial Arbitration and Mediation Centre for the Americas (CAMCA) and the Inter-American Arbitration Commission (IACAC). As an independent practitioner, she participated in many arbitration proceedings related to international trade.

Carolyn Lamm

Carolyn Lamm is a partner in White & Case's Washington, DC office. She regularly serves as lead counsel in high-stakes, cutting-edge cases, successfully resolving significant international arbitrations involving international corporations and sovereign clients. She also serves as lead counsel in arbitration-related litigation. Her practice concentrates on international dispute resolution through international arbitration, litigation and international trade proceedings. Lamm is the Distinguished Faculty Chair at the University of Miami School of Law in the White & Case LLM program in International Arbitration, where she teaches international investment arbitration, and is also a fellow at the American College of Trial Lawyers. Lamm is a past president of the District of Columbia Bar and the American Bar Association and until recently, was the ABA's representative to the International Bar Association. Prior to joining White & Case, she was employed by the US Department of Justice where she served as a trial attorney in the Fraud

Section, Civil Division, before obtaining the position of assistant director, Commercial Litigation Branch, Civil Division. She earned her BA from the State University of New York at Buffalo and a JD from the University of Miami School of Law.

Robert E. Lutz

Robert E. Lutz is a Paul E. Treusch Professor of Law Emeritus at Southwestern Law School. He teaches courses in international business transactions, international litigation and arbitration, and public international law. Lutz has held the top posts in several of the most influential organizations in the international law community. He chaired the Section of International Law of the American Bar Association, as well as the international law sections of the Association of American Law Schools and the Los Angeles County Bar Association, and was a co-founder of the California State Bar Section of International Law. He serves as a member of the State Department Legal Adviser's Advisory Committee on International Law and of the NAFTA Advisory Committee on Private Commercial Dispute Resolution. He has been a member of arbitration panels under the NAFTA and the US-Canada Free Trade Agreement, was founding board of directors chair of the Center for International Commercial Arbitration, and a member of the WTO panel on goods and services disputes. Lutz currently participates in the work of the ABA Commission on Ethics 20/20, an effort to assess the impacts of technology and globalization on the legal profession and to propose reforms. He received a BA from the University of Southern California and a JD from the University of California, Berkeley School of Law.

Pedro J. Martinez-Fraga

Pedro Martinez-Fraga is a partner with Bryan Cave Leighton Paisner. He is a leading practitioner in the field of investor-state international arbitration, international commercial arbitration, and transnational litigation, including complex jurisdictional disputes concerning common law and civil law issues. Martinez-Fraga is the co-leader of the firm's international arbitration team. He serves on the advisory council to the Restatement (Third) of International Commercial Arbitration of the American Law Institute. He has served as an arbitrator in International Chamber of Commerce and International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes (World Bank) proceedings, Bilbao Bizkaia Ur Partzuergoa v. Argentine Republic (ICSID Case No. ARB/07/26). His arbitration experience includes arbitral disputes under the following institutions and rules: ICSID (World Bank), ICC, LCIA, ICDR, DIS and the Hong Kong International Arbitration Center. Martinez-Fraga has lectured at more than 30 universities globally. He currently serves as an adjunct professor at the New York University School of Law where he was named Scholar-in-Residence Fellow in 2017. He is also a Visiting Professor of International Litigation and Arbitration for the Global Law Program of the University of Navarra School of Law in Pamplona, Spain. He holds a BA from St. John's College, a JD from Columbia University and a JD equivalent and PhD from the University of Madrid.

Stephanie Middleton

Stephanie Middleton joined the staff of the American Law Institute as deputy director in March 2010. She previously served as staff director and general counsel for the US Senate Committee on the Judiciary, and before that she as chief counsel for litigation at CIGNA Corporation. Middleton began her legal career as an associate at Morgan, Lewis & Bockius in Philadelphia. She was Judge of Elections and was elected to the Council of Rose Valley Borough, Pennsylvania and has served on the boards of the Crozer-Keystone Health System, the Wallingford Art Center, the Pennsylvania Intergovernmental Cooperation Authority (PICA), the Committee of Seventy, and the Green Tree School, and the board of pensions of the Presbyterian Church USA. Middleton received her BA at Yale University and her JD at the University of Pennsylvania Law School.

Neil Popović

Neil Popović is a partner in the business trial practice group of Sheppard Mullin's San Francisco office and is team leader of the international litigation and arbitration team. Popović's practice includes multijurisdictional litigation, international commercial arbitration, and investment arbitration. His arbitration experience includes AAA, CIETAC, ICC, ICDR, ICSID, JAMS, LCIA, and UNCITRAL arbitration rules, among others. He also practices international environmental law, including counseling and representing clients in international negotiations, and serves as a project complaint mechanism expert for the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development. Prior to joining Sheppard Mullin, Popović was a shareholder at a major San Francisco law firm and before that he was an attorney with the Sierra Club Legal Defense Fund International Program in San Francisco. Early in his career he practiced with a San Francisco civil and criminal litigation boutique. Mr. Popović earned an AB from the University of California, Berkeley, a JD from the University of California, Berkeley, School of Law and an MA from Tufts University.

Sarah Reynolds

Sarah Reynolds is a partner in Mayer Brown's Chicago and Palo Alto offices and a member of the firm's litigation and dispute resolution practice. Her dispute resolution practice includes representing technology companies in international and domestic arbitrations, class and individual actions, and mass environmental torts. As an integral member of the firm's international arbitration practice, she represents multinational corporations before domestic and international arbitral bodies, including the JAMS, AAA, ICC and ICDR. Those disputes range from complex commercial supply agreements to licensing agreements. Her arbitration experience also includes obtaining and defending against judicial review of arbitration awards, and drafting and reviewing arbitration clauses in transaction agreements. Reynolds also litigates complex commercial disputes for technology companies, such as breach of contract and licensing agreements, false advertising, digital media and advertising, e-commerce, and user-generated content. Reynolds has a bachelor's degree from the University of Colorado, Boulder, a master's from the University of Illinois at Chicago, and a JD from the University of Chicago Law School.

David W. Rivkin

David W. Rivkin is a litigation partner in the New York and London offices of Debevoise & Plimpton. He has broad experience in the areas of international litigation and arbitration and is co-chair of the firm's international dispute resolution group and a past president of the International Bar Association. Rivkin has handled international arbitrations throughout the world and before virtually every major arbitration institution. He also represents companies in transnational litigation in the United States, including the enforcement of arbitral awards and arbitration agreements. Rivkin is a member of many arbitration panels, including the AAA, CPR Institute for Dispute Resolution, Hong Kong International Arbitration Centre, Singapore International Arbitration Centre, Japan Commercial Arbitration Association, Chinese International Economic and Trade Arbitration Commission, the Cairo Regional Arbitration Centre, the Fédération Internationale de l'Automobile, and the Court of Arbitration for Sport. In August 2008 Mr. Rivkin served as a member of the Ad Hoc Division of the Court of Arbitration for Sport at the Summer Olympic Games in Beijing. He previously served on the panel for the 2002 Winter Olympics in Salt Lake City and the 2004 Summer Olympics in Athens. Rivkin holds a BA from Yale University and a JD from Yale Law School.

Catherine A. Rogers

Catherine A. Rogers is a professor and scholar of international arbitration and professional ethics at Penn State Law, with a dual appointment as professor of ethics, regulation, and the rule of law at Queen Mary, University of London, where she is also co-director of the Institute for Ethics and Regulation. Rogers is a reporter for the ALI's Restatement of the U.S. Law of International Commercial Arbitration. She sits on the board of directors of the Lagos Court of Arbitration, the International Advisory Board of the Vienna International Arbitration Centre, the Geneva Center for International Dispute Settlement Academic Forum on ISDS, and Oxford University Press' Investment Claims Advisory Board. Rogers also regularly engages in capacity-building activities to promote international dispute resolution and the rule of law in developing and emerging economies. Before entering academia, Rogers clerked for the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, and practiced international litigation and arbitration in New York, Hong Kong, and San Francisco. She earned a BA from the University of California, Berkeley, a JD from the University of California, Hastings College of the Law, and an LLM from Yale Law School.

Jan K. Schaefer

Jan K. Schaefer heads the dispute resolution practice of King & Spalding in Germany. As a partner of the trial and global disputes practice, Jan represents foreign and German clients in domestic and international arbitration matters, both commercial and investor-state. He appears before German courts in first- and second-instance matters, including the taking of evidence for foreign proceedings, and interim relief and enforcement matters, and has an active international arbitrator practice. He also appears before domestic and international tribunals in complex, high-value arbitration proceedings conducted under the auspices of the International Chamber of Commerce, DIS (German Institution of Arbitration), Stockholm Chamber of Commerce, and International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes rules in multiple venues. He also has experience in ad hoc proceedings under both German and Swiss arbitration law, including the United Nations Commission on International Trade Law rules. Schaefer has served as chairman, party-appointed, sole or emergency arbitrator in some 60 arbitrations under a variety of rules, including ad hoc proceedings. He also advises clients on effective, efficient resolution of disputes at early stages, including the use of alternative dispute resolution techniques.

Linda Silberman

Linda Silberman is the Clarence D. Ashley Professor of Law at New York University School of Law and the co-director of the NYU Center on Transnational Litigation and Arbitration. She joined the NYU faculty in 1971 and became the first tenured female full-professor at the school. Silberman teaches and writes in the areas of conflict of laws, civil procedure, comparative civil procedure, transnational litigation, international commercial arbitration, and international family law. She has held visiting professorships at Harvard, Columbia, and the University of Pennsylvania Law Schools. Professor Silberman has been a member of numerous US State Department delegations to the Hague Conference on Private International Law and is presently a member of the State Department Advisory Committee on Private International Law. She is also a member of the Singapore Family Justice Courts International Advisory Council, a member of the Academic Council of the Institute of Transnational Arbitration, a board member of the Institute of Judicial Administration, and a Fellow of the American Bar Foundation. Prior to joining the NYU faculty, Professor Silberman practiced law Sonnenschein, Nath & Rosenthal in Chicago, Illinois. Professor Silberman has served as an adviser on three different projects for the ALI: The Restatement Third of the US Law of International Commercial Arbitration, the Restatement Fourth of the Foreign Relations Law of the US, and the Restatement Third of Conflict of Laws. She is a graduate of the University of Michigan and the University of Michigan Law School, and following graduation, a Fulbright Scholar in London, England.

Abby Cohen Smutny

Abby Cohen Smutny is global head of White & Case's international arbitration practice. Her experience includes working with clients in a wide range of industries including banking, financial services, oil and gas, mining, electric power, real estate development, water supply, retail, pharmaceuticals, construction, tobacco, railroads, telecommunications and manufacturing. Cohen Smutny has significant experience managing claims arising out of project financing, privatizations, natural resource concessions, contracts with states and state-entities and political risk insurance. She represents clients in arbitrations before all major arbitral forums including ICSID, the ICC, the Vienna International Arbitral Centre, the LCIA, the ICDR, and the SCC, as well as in ad hoc arbitrations, such as those under the UNCITRAL Rules. Cohen Smutny also serves as counsel in cases arising under bilateral investment treaties (BITs), the Energy Charter Treaty, the NAFTA, the DR-CAFTA and the ASEAN treaty. She earned an AB from Vassar College, and a JD from the University of Chicago Law School.

Judge Elizabeth Stong

Judge Elizabeth Stong has served as US Bankruptcy Court Judge for the Eastern District of New York since 2003. Previously, she was a litigation partner and associate at Willkie Farr & Gallagher, a litigation associate at Cravath, Swaine & Moore, and a law clerk US District Court for the District of Massachusetts. Judge Stong is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations and the ABA Standing Committee on Pro Bono and Public Service and also serves as a member of the Council of the American Law Institute, the board of trustees of the Practising Law Institute, the board of directors of the International Insolvency Institute, and the board of directors of P.R.I.M.E Finance. She is also the co-chair of the New York City Bar's Council on the Profession, and co-chair of the New York Fellows of the American Bar Foundation. Judge Stong represents the ABA Judicial Division's National Conference of Federal Trial Judges in the ABA's House of Delegates, and also serves on the ABA's Standing Committee on Pro Bono and Public Service and the council of the ABA Business Law Section. Her past positions include president of the Harvard Law School Association and ten years as chair of the NCBJ International Judicial Relations Committee. She is an adjunct professor at Brooklyn Law School and St. John's University School of Law. Stong earned her undergraduate degree at Harvard University and her JD at the Harvard School of Law.

Guy Struve

Guy Struve is senior counsel at Davis, Polk & Wardwell, where he has worked for nearly all of his career. Before joining the firm, Struve spent a year clerking in the US Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit in New York. Struve earned an AB from Yale University and a JD from Harvard Law School where he was a member of the Harvard Law Review.

John M. Townsend

John M. Townsend is a litigation partner in the Washington, DC, office of Hughes Hubbard & Reed and co-chairs the firm's arbitration practice group. He has served as an arbitrator in more than 75 arbitrations, including commercial and investment treaty cases under all major sets of arbitration rules. Townsend served as chair of the board of directors of the American Arbitration Association from 2007 to 2010, as chair of the executive committee of the AAA from 2004 to 2007, and he currently chairs the AAA's law committee. He was a member and a vice president of the Court of Arbitration of the LCIA from 2014 to 2019, and was the first chair of the mediation committee of the International Bar Association (IBA). Townsend is a member of the ALI and served as an advisor to the ALI's project to draft a Restatement of the American Law of International Commercial Arbitration. He earned a BA from Yale University and a JD from Yale Law School.

Marcio Vasconcellos (LLM '16)

Marcio Vasconcellos is an associate in the Los Angeles office of Musick, Peeler & Garrett. He is a member of the corporate and securities, international arbitration, and business litigation practice groups. Vasconcellos represents clients in international commercial arbitration under a variety of rules, including CC, ICDR, AAA, JAMS, CAM/CCBC, and the UNCITRAL Rules. He also has significant experience in domestic arbitration and related litigation. Prior to joining Musick Peeler, Vasconcellos was a junior associate in the mergers and acquisitions group at Baker & McKenzie in Brazil, and a partner of a boutique commercial law firm, specializing in mergers and Acquisitions and arbitration. Vasconcellos's dispute resolution practice focuses on international commercial arbitration, and domestic arbitration and related litigation, including advising clients on mitigating their contractual risk, early dispute analysis and avoidance, international arbitration representation, and arbitration-related litigation. He has a JD equivalent degree and a master of laws from the Federal University of Rio Grande do Sul School of Law and an LLM from Pepperdine Caruso School of Law.

Judge Diane Wood

Judge Diane Pamela Wood is the chief judge of the US Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit, and a senior lecturer at the University of Chicago Law School. Judge Wood became the third woman ever hired as a law professor at the University of Chicago Law School. On the bench, she is considered a liberal intellectual counterweight to the Seventh Circuit's conservative judges, Richard Posner and Frank Easterbrook. Implicit in her understanding of constitutional law is a robust notion of protection for racial, gender, and sexual-orientation minorities; she has written several noted opinions on questions of LGBT rights and affirmative action. Before her nomination to the bench, Judge Wood worked in private practice and for the executive branch. She previously had clerked for Judge Irving Goldberg of the US Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit and she was among the first women to clerk at the Supreme Court when she thereafter clerked for Associate Justice Harry Blackmun. Wood graduated from the University of Texas at Austin with a BA and she earned her JD from the University of Texas School of Law, where she was an editor of the Texas Law Review, graduated with high honors and Order of the Coif, and was among the first women at the University of Texas admitted as a member of the Friar Society.

Moderators and Hosts

Lee Crawford Boyd

Lee Crawford Boyd, a partner at Pierce Bainbridge, is a litigator and trial lawyer with more than 25 years of experience handling complex litigation and arbitration and national and state class action suits involving entertainment, international human rights, and restitution cases. Crawford Boyd is also a member of Victoria Associates, an elite international arbitration practice group composed of international arbitration specialists from around the globe. This enhances her practice and she stands ready to serve clients with transnational disputes. Prior to her service at Pierce Bainbridge, Crawford Boyd was a tenured faculty member at Pepperdine

Caruso Law School where she taught international litigation and civil procedure. She also worked as a prosecutor in the Manhattan DA's office as well as at several other prominent law firms. She holds a BA from the University of Virginia and a JD from Harvard Law School.

Maria Chedid

Maria Chedid is a partner at Arnold & Porter's San Francisco office who regularly serves as lead counsel in commercial and investment arbitrations. She also sits as an arbitrator, and advises on litigation of international disputes in US courts, including actions seeking judicial enforcement of arbitration agreements and awards. She brings a wealth of experience from a wide range of matters, having worked on disputes around the globe relating to licensing, distribution, technology, energy, taxation, infrastructure, political risk insurance, construction, government contracts, environmental regulation, joint ventures, pharmaceutical products, real estate, administrative law, internet domain names, and claims of corruption. Chedid is one of two US representatives appointed to the International Court of Arbitration of the ICC, co-chair of the ICDR California advisory committee, a US member of the national committee for the SIAC Users Council, and the founding president and co-chair of the board of the California International Arbitration Council. Chedid earned a BA from Barnard College and a JD from New York University School of Law.

Donald Earl (Trey) Childress

Although currently serving as the counselor on international law in the Office of the Legal Adviser in the US State Department, Trey Childress is a professor at Pepperdine Caruso Law where he teaches, inter alia, civil procedure, international litigation, and comparative law. Childress's primary research interests are international civil litigation and arbitration, private international law, comparative law, and ethics. He is working extensively on the role that international civil litigation and arbitration plays in an increasingly global world. Before teaching, Childress worked at Jones Day in Washington DC as part of its issues and appeals practice. He focused on Supreme Court litigation, general appellate litigation, and significant motions practice in trial litigation. He has significant private practice experience in transnational litigation/arbitration, complex civil procedure, conflict of laws, constitutional law, immigration law, international dispute resolution, federal Indian law, and national security law, including cases related to the war on terror. Childress clerked for the Honorable Paul V. Niemeyer on the US Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit. He holds a BA from the University of Virginia, an MA from Oxford Brookes University, and a JD and LLM from Duke University.

Jack J. Coe, Jr.

Jack Coe is the faculty director of the LLM concentration in international commercial arbitration at the Caruso School of Law, where he teaches international business transactions, international commercial arbitration, and international investment disputes. He is a fellow of the American Bar Foundation, an elected member of the American Law Institute, and an associate reporter for the Restatement on the U.S. Law of International Commercial Arbitration. Coe has chaired the Disputes Division of the ABA International Law Section, and the Academic Council of the Institute for Transnational Arbitration. Coe consults with governments and multinational corporations in relation to commercial and direct investment disputes under the treaties and has both argued international arbitral claims and acted as arbitrator in ad hoc and institutional arbitrations. He is on the arbitrator panel of the International Centre for Dispute Resolution (ICDR) of the American Arbitration Association. Coe's training includes advanced studies and work assignments in Europe, including a two-year post at the Iran-US Claims Tribunal at the Hague. He has been a Rotary International Graduate Fellow, a Salzburg Seminar Fellow, and a Fellow of the New York University Center for Transnational Litigation, Arbitration, and Commercial Law. He holds a BA from the University of California, Los Angeles, a JD from Loyola Marymount Law School, an LLM from the University of Exeter in the United Kingdom, and a PhD from the London School of Economics and Political Science.

Jennifer A. Dorsey JD ('97)

Jennifer Dorsey is a judge for the US District Court for the District of Nevada. In addition to her service on the bench, Dorsey teaches judicial writing for law clerks and externs as an adjunct professor at the University of Nevada Las Vegas Boyd School of Law. She is also a member of Pepperdine Caruso School of Law's Board of Advisors and is a member of the University of Nevada Las Vegas Foundation's advisory board. Before taking the bench in 2013, Dorsey was a partner in the civil litigation firm of Kemp, Jones & Coulthard, which she joined immediately after receiving her JD. Although she litigated a wide variety of cases, including complex commercial litigation and class actions, she particularly enjoyed her appellate practice: briefing and arguing matters in the Nevada Supreme Court, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, and the United States Supreme Court. Dorsey earned her bachelor's degree at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas and her JD from the Caruso School of Law.

Barbara A. Reeves

Barbara A. Reeves is a mediator and arbitrator at JAMS. Reeves is a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators and the College of Commercial Arbitrators, an arbitrator on the Court of Arbitration for Sport in Lausanne, Switzerland, and a certified mediator with the International Mediation Institute. She is also a certified e-discovery specialist. Before becoming a full-time neutral, Reeves had an extensive and varied litigation practice, beginning with the US Department of Justice Antitrust Division in Washington, DC and Los Angeles. She later worked as a partner at national law firms, and finally as associate general counsel and vice president for Southern California Edison and Edison International before joining JAMS in January 2006. She received her JD from Harvard Law School.

Thomas J. Stipanowich

Thomas J. Stipanowich is William H. Webster Chair in Dispute Resolution, professor of law, and associate dean of the Straus Institute for Dispute Resolution, where he teaches courses in negotiation theory and practice, mediation, arbitration practice and advocacy, international commercial arbitration, and international dispute resolution. Stipanowich is on the executive committee of the International Task Force on Mixed Mode Dispute Resolution Processes co-sponsored by the International Mediation Institute, the College of Commercial Arbitrators and the Straus Institute. He is also on the advisory board of the New York International Arbitration Center and the Academic Council of the Institute for Transnational Arbitration. From 2001 to 2006 Stipanowich served as president and CEO of the International Institute for Conflict Prevention & Resolution (CPR Institute). Under his leadership the Institute expanded its operations in the EU and China and started other initiatives on commercial mediation and dispute resolution. As a neutral, Stipanowich has received appointments through the American Arbitration Association, and JAMS, to name a few. Stipanowich earned a BS, an M.Arch and a JD from the University of Illinois.

Maureen Weston

Maureen Weston is professor of law at Pepperdine Caruso School of Law and is director of the Entertainment, Media & Sports Dispute Resolution Project. Weston teaches courses on arbitration, mediation, negotiation, international dispute resolution, legal ethics, and US and international sports law. She serves as faculty advisor to the Sports & Entertainment Law Society and Dispute Resolution Law Journal, and as coach for ICC Mediation Advocacy and Sports & Entertainment Law Negotiation competitions. Weston has taught law at the University of Oklahoma, University of Colorado, University of Nevada Las Vegas, Hamline University School of Law and in Oxford, England. Prior to teaching, Weston practiced law with Holme Roberts & Owen and Faegre & Benson in Colorado. She is a member of the boards of directors at the University of Colorado School of Law alumni board, the National Sports Law Institute at Marquette School of Law, and the editorial board of Law InSport. She received her BA at the University of Denver and her JD from the University of Colorado.